Written Testimony
Our islands have some, but not much, wonderful architecture, and some bit not many, historic places.
Our historic homes are often up for scrutiny as sources of cash for the city. The folks that live and work I. Them are their defenders. An old building is a pain to maintain- why not just tear it down and throw up something easy to run and clean? Well, because of love. Love of history, love of sense of place, love keeps these old beauties standing.
Anything we can as a city so to keep these building alive is good. That means forgoing the extra $700 dollars a year in tax. It isn't much, but it may save something priceless.
I oppose CB 52.
Thank you and aloha.
